

BLOOM

FRESH NEWS FROM THE Paddock

---

🌸 If you would LOVE these beauties in Spring... PLANT NOW!

We hope this newsletter finds you well and excited for the upcoming season of beautiful blooms. As the days grow longer and become warmer, it's time to sit back, do nothing and wait for the amazing Lucinda's Everlastings to create a vibrant and flourishing garden.

---

Don't miss out!... here are some tips for late-sown everlastings.

Time is of the essence!

If you haven't yet planted, don't miss out and follow these tips:

Tip 1: Make sure your soil is not compacted so that roots can easily penetrate and get growing immediately.

Tip 2: If it stops raining, make sure you hand water or irrigate to extend the growing season.

Tip 3: Now is a great time to control more weeds. By now most weeds have germinated, so you can remove them before planting.

Tip 4: Be aware, your late sown plants will be absolutely beautiful, however slightly shorter because they didn't have the whole growing season to grow.

Tip 5: Your flowers will be the envy of all who planted early. Early sown flowers will be haying off...and yours will be just coming into their own 🌸

Oh the anticipation
 It's nearly time to enjoy your flowers!

So excited that Everlastings planted in May are starting to flower! Even though the weather has been cold, the everlastings are pushing through to erupt with their pink blooms.

DOWN ON THE FARM

After 50 years, our shearing shed is being cleaned out of sheep manure!!
 Wow, imagine the truckloads of manure for my garden! 💕💕

Burning some piles of logs to clean up the paddocks. Nice pic of my nephew and niece (pictured centrally) and their friends from America. Wow, they LOVED the farm!!

Zara on the 50 year old combine seeder sowing some everlastings...
 50 years old! Wow! If on a good thing, keep doing it!!

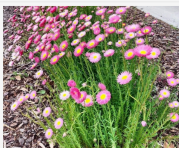

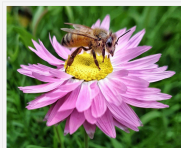

Another pic of Jake (nephew and central) and niece, Emma (being piggy-backed) and American friends in our canola crop. We've had plenty of rain, so the potential is certainly there 💕
